

WPCC to sponsor another Hugo effort

Western Piedmont Community College will sponsor another effort to provide relief for victims of Hurricane Hugo in South Carolina.

Sites for collection of needed items will be located at Munday's Market in Glen Alpine, Lowe's Foods in Valdese, K-mart on Highway 181 and the tennis courts at WPCC, said Sarah Garrison, the college's coordinator of public information.

The sites will be open from 7 a.m. to 6 p.m. Items needed are matches, nails, rakes and shovels.

Other items needed are matches, batteries, can openers, flashlights, blankets, towels, sheets, small appliances, light furniture and mattresses and box springs.

The Dana Corporation will transport the items to Summerville, a small town just outside of Charleston which was hit with tornadoes as well as Hurricane Hugo, Garrison said.

---

STORY OR PHOTO IDEA ?

Please Call
The News Herald
437-2161

---

Photo by Mark Hauer

Volunteers load donations to Charleston hurricane victims onto a truck at WPCC today.