'The WPCC Literary Review'

Western Piedmont Community College will present its new literary publication, "The Western Piedmont Literary Review," at a reception for the publication's authors on Thursday at 7:30 pm in the college's student lounge in Hildebrand Hall. The evening's entertainment will include readings by the authors as well as acoustic music from local favorite Terry Eckard. The reception is free and open to the public. Shown here is WPCC Humanities Dean Dr. Carolyn West and English instructor Ann Marie Radaskiewice, presenting the first copy of "The WPCC Literary Review" to President Jim A. Richardson.
